1 Purpose

- (a) The Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) (Corporations Act) prohibits the trading in shares, options, debentures (including convertible notes) and other securities (securities) of a company by any person who is in possession of price sensitive information regarding that company that is not generally available. The Corporations Act:
  - (i) imposes substantial penalties on persons who breach those provisions; and
  - (ii) applies to the extent of any inconsistency between it and this policy.
- (b) This policy regulates dealings by directors and certain officers of Nine Entertainment Co. Holdings Limited (NEC or the Company) and other designated persons, in securities in NEC about which they acquire Inside Information through their position or dealings with NEC.
- (c) This policy is not designed to prohibit NEC Persons from investing in NEC securities, but does recognise that there may be times when directors, officers or certain employees cannot or should not invest in NEC securities.

3 Insider trading

3.1 General prohibition on insider trading

- (a) No NEC Person may, while in possession of Inside Information concerning NEC, in breach of the Corporations Act buy or sell any NEC securities at any time, procure another person to deal in NEC securities in any way or pass on any Inside Information to another person for that person's own personal gain by dealing in NEC securities in any way.
- (b) All NEC Persons are prohibited from dealing in the securities of outside companies about which they acquire Inside Information through their position with NEC.
- (c) The requirements imposed by this policy are in addition to any legal prohibitions on insider trading. Trading in NEC securities is prohibited at any time by a director or a NEC Person if that person possesses Inside Information.

3.2 Inside Information

An NEC Person is responsible for assessing whether they possess “Inside Information”. This occurs where:

- (a) the person possesses information that is not generally available to the public and, if the information were generally available, a reasonable person would expect it to have a material effect on the price or value of NEC's securities (or a decision whether or not to trade in them); and
- (b) the person knows, or ought reasonably to know, that the information is not generally available and, if it were generally available, a reasonable person would expect it to have a material effect on the price or value of NEC's securities.

A reasonable person would be taken to expect information to have a material effect on the price or value of securities if the information would, or would be likely to, influence a person who commonly invests in securities to either deal or not deal in securities in any way. Inside Information in relation to the securities of outside companies has the same meaning for the purposes of this policy, except that references to “NEC's securities” should be read as references to the securities of the outside company.

4 Restrictions on trading during Closed Periods

4.1 Closed periods

- (a) NEC Persons must not, subject to sections 4.3 and 6, buy or sell NEC securities during a Closed Period.
- (b) A “Closed Period” is any period of time:
  - (i) commencing from the end of 31 December until the end of the trading day on which NEC's half-year financial results are released to the ASX;

- (ii) commencing from the end of 30 June until the end of the trading day on which NEC's annual financial results are released to the ASX;
- (iii) commencing four weeks prior to NEC's Annual General Meeting and ending at the end of the day on which NEC's Annual General Meeting is held; and

5 Other restrictions

5.1 No speculative trading

Under no circumstances should NEC Persons engage in short-term or speculative trading in NEC securities. This prohibition includes short term direct dealing in NEC securities as well as transactions in the derivative markets, involving exchange traded options, share warrants, contracts for difference, and other similar instruments, which are short term or speculative.

5.2 No protection arrangements

The entering into of all types of “protection arrangements” for any NEC securities (or NEC products in the derivatives markets):

- (a) is prohibited at any time in respect of any NEC securities which are unvested or subject to a holding lock; and

For the avoidance of doubt and without limiting the generality of this policy, entering into protection arrangements includes entering into transactions which:

- (c) Amount to “short selling” of securities beyond the NEC Person’s holding of securities;
- (d) Operate to limit the economic risk of any NEC Person’s security holding (e.g. hedging arrangements) including NEC’s securities held beneficially (for example, in trust or under any NEC incentive plan) on that NEC Person’s behalf; or
- (e) Otherwise enable a NEC Person to profit from a decrease in the market price of securities.

5.3 No granting of security over NEC securities or entering into margin lending arrangements

- (a) NEC Persons may not at any time, directly or indirectly, grant any form of security (whether by way of charge, mortgage, pledge or otherwise) over any NEC securities which are unvested or subject to a holding lock, to secure any obligation of that NEC Person or any third party; or enter into any margin lending arrangement involving NEC securities.

- (b) Unless paragraph (a) applies, NEC Persons may, directly or indirectly, grant any form of security (whether by way of charge, mortgage, pledge or otherwise) over any NEC securities, to secure any obligation of that NEC Person or any third party; or enter into any margin lending arrangement involving NEC securities, with consent under paragraph 4.2.

- (i) trade NEC securities where the trading does not result in a change of beneficial interest in the securities;
  - (ii) acquire securities under any director or employee security plan or through the exercise of options or performance rights under an option or performance rights plan or acquire, or agree to acquire, options or performance rights under an option or performance rights plan.
